Part III – Statement of Program Service Accomplishments

Organization's Primary Exempt Purpose

Mission

The Alan Guttmacher Institute (AGI) advances sexual and reproductive health and rights in the United States and worldwide through an interrelated program of social science research, policy analysis and public education to encourage enlightened public debate, promote sound policy and program development, and inform individual decision-making.

Values

AGI's program is guided by six overarching institutional values

- Attention to methodological rigor and accuracy as fundamental to the integrity and credibility of the Institute's research;
- Commitment to publish and disseminate results of the Institute's research regardless of the political or program ramifications and to evidence-based public education and advocacy;
- Openness to multiple perspectives of outside experts to enrich the Institute's program and enhance its understanding of the issues,
- Anticipation and study of emerging issues to equip the Institute to inform public debate when such issues gain prominence;
- Balance between new and continuing priorities to ensure that the Institute is both on the cutting edge of scholarly and political thought and fully committed to core issues of ongoing importance; and
- Collaboration with others to expand the reach and sustainability of the Institute's efforts.

Guiding Principles

A Vision for the Future

AGI envisions a world in which all women and men have the ability to exercise their rights and responsibilities-freely and with dignity-regarding sexual behavior, reproduction and family formation. Essential to this vision are public- and private-sector health and social policies that support both personal decisions about whether and when to have a child as well as parenthood and parenting. So, too, is the eradication of persistent gender inequality throughout the world and the attainment of equal status, rights and responsibilities for women within sexual, familial and social relationships, and in all aspects of public life.

An Integrated View of Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights

AGI regards sexual and reproductive health, and sexual and reproductive rights, as closely related and inherently interdependent: Sexual health is integral to reproductive health; sexual and reproductive rights are fundamental to the achievement of sexual and reproductive health. Therefore, recognizing the range of interrelated needs people have over the course of their lives from adolescence onward, the Institute works to protect, expand and equalize access to information and services that will enable them to:

- Avoid unplanned pregnancies;
- Prevent and treat sexually transmitted infections, including HIV;
- Exercise the right to choose abortion;
- Achieve healthy pregnancies and births;
- Balance parenting with other roles; and
- Have healthy satisfying sexual relationships.

Priority Attention to Those In Greatest Need

AGI promotes the sexual and reproductive health and rights of all people, but gives priority attention to addressing the needs and concerns of those whose access to information, services or other societal benefits may be impeded by their age, mental status, geography or income, or by virtue of gender, racial, ethnic, religious or cultural discrimination.

A Responsibility to the United States and the World

As a U S organization, AGI is acutely aware of the pressing need, and undertakes as its first responsibility, to improve the quality of policy and program concerning sexual and reproductive health and rights in the United States. Understanding further that the political, cultural and financial power of the United States can have considerable impact on sexual and reproductive health and rights throughout the world, AGI places a similarly high priority on monitoring and analysis of U.S. policy as it affects women and men in other countries. In its international efforts, mindful of the underlying commonalities across and within countries under which sexuality is expressed, families or unions are formed, and children are conceived and born, AGI emphasizes the development and dissemination of thematic comparative analyses that are global or regional in scope and on country-specific work that will have the greatest relevance in other parts of the world.

Part III – Statement of Program Service Accomplishments

To fulfill its mission, The Alan Guttmacher Institute (AGI) used its annual budget of $8,113,398 – $6,040,215 in Program Services – to support its national and international research, publishing and information outreach activities, based in New York, and its public policy work, based in Washington, DC.

In determining its priorities, AGI anticipates social, political and legal conditions that will propel issues to the forefront of public attention. Each current effort builds on those of the past. The process is a cyclical one, in which public policy developments lead to research and then to communication of findings, recommendations and ideas. AGI strives to provide information that will have multiple uses at the national, state, local – and international – levels. By actively seeking the cooperation and advice of other organizations and researchers, AGI encourages collaborative endeavors that will serve its mission, increase its effectiveness and avoid duplication of effort.

AGI informs its various audiences – policymakers, activists, health care professionals, researchers, the media and the public through the following:

- Perspectives on Sexual and Reproductive Health (formerly Family Planning Perspectives) – a peer-reviewed, bimonthly journal of original, policy-relevant, widely referenced research and analysis on reproductive health in the United States and other developed countries.
- International Family Planning Perspectives – a peer-reviewed quarterly journal of research articles for use by those concerned with fertility, family planning, maternal and child health, and population policy, with summaries in Spanish and French.
- The Guttmacher Report on Public Policy – a bimonthly review that analyzes reproductive health – policymaking in Washington and in state capitals across the country – information critical to understanding, anticipating and effecting change
- Web site (www.guttmacher.org).
- Special reports, news releases, electronic list serve announcements, fact sheets, policy papers, and slide series.
