NIAS	The proposed work will be done in Kollegal, Gundlupet and Chamarajnagar talukas in Chamarajnagar district, Karnataka. Teachers in most schools in this district have little or no access to teaching aids such as reference books, charts etc. nor do they have access to trained and experienced personnel whom they can seek advice from in case of doubts or difficulties. In such situations, they are left to rely entirely on school textbooks which are often poorly written. The government of Karnataka set up Block and Cluster Resource Centers to provide both material and personnel resources to these teachers. Despite their noble intention, these resource centers are in terrible state with very poor infrastructure and equipment, and the government has not enthused itself in the upkeep of these centers beyond paying the salary of their staff. This problem has manifested itself as a compromise in the quality of education which the school children in this district receive.	Chamrajnagar, Karnataka	2000
