	The younger children (usually children of sex workers and orphans picked off the streets) are provided informal education from 1st through the 6th standards and formal education at government schools nearby. These children also reside at the center and are provided food and other facilities. The activities of Odanadi have been recognized by the state and the central governments. The Govt of Karnataka has allotted two plots of land in Mysore for the rehabilitation of prostituted women and children. Other state governments (Maharashtra, Delhi, West Bengal) have been sending rescued girls to Odanadi, to facilitate their rehabilitation. Apart from this, Odanadi is often consulted at the national level on its approach to tackling this social problem.

Sankurathri Foundation	The school aims to provide education in the rural communities so that children can help themselves in future. The school follows the State syllabus and books. The teaching methodology is different from the methods followed in conventional schools. The school imparts strict discipline and very high academic standards. The student-to-teacher ratio is less than 1:10 and this actually helps the teachers closely monitor the progress of each child and help them build upon their strengths and overcome weaknesses. The teachers try to identify the innate potential of each child by paying attention to each child and monitoring his/her progress. In addition, the school provides two sets of uniforms, nutritious lunch, medical check ups and medicines, a late afternoon glass of milk and bus transportation for students not living within walking distance. The management conducts parent-teacher meetings every month to discuss the problems both parties have and provide guidance to arrive at effective solutions. Door Step School	Door Step School is a registered non-profit organization working in Mumbai and Pune, India. They conduct non-formal education classes for out of school and working children (7 to 18 years of age) residing in slums, on pavements, docks etc. With the introduction of the "School on Wheels" bus, Door Step has come closer to fulfilling one of its major objectives - making basic education easily accessible to a larger number of children. The bus drops off the children to school and also acts as a classroom for 5 sessions during the day. It also runs similar classes for adolescent girls whose parents are often reluctant to send them to school and have to work to supplement the family income. DSS also runs Balwadis for pre-school children, so that they are prepared to enroll in school when they are old enough. Doorstep has also recognized the need for children enrolled in school to remain so and to that end runs study classes for first generation learners who have little or no support at home	Jagannath Shankarsheth Chowk Municipal School Second Floor Room No 54, Nana Chowk, Grant Road Mumbai District MAHARASHTRA 400 007	13,395.00
Sarvodaya Parivar Trust	Pindval lies on a high mountain plateau covering a large 30-km. X 30-km. region populated by tribal Adivasi farmers. In 1994, Dolatsingh Parmar started the Sarvodaya Vidyalaya residential school teaching a small group of 40 boys in standard I. There are more students who want to attend the school but there was not enough funding or enough room to house the children. The school built one building on the school grounds to house the sixty-odd children. Through Asha support and guidance, they started to enroll girls and converted a seperate building for girls. They now have a almost an even ratio of boys and girls. Every year the enrollment has grown and there are now over 200 students attending grades KG to 7th standard. Project RightStart	Many teachers in chennai rural area lack in terms of knowledge of good education methods specifically targeted towards young children. They require training in these areas.Instead of having different training sessions, one for each project, it made sense to combine these into a single training session for all the Balwadi and Primary School teachers. Besides lowering the cost of running these sessions, combining these also brings in interaction between teachers spread across several districts of Tamilnadu. This would help them and us to understand the complexities that exist at the ground in the different areas of the state.Thus was envisioned the RightStart teachers training program. Khajurdaha Nabankur United Club	In rural West Bengal where Khajurdaha Nabankur United Club (KNUC) has been active, there are eleven government primary schools serving more than 9000 school-age children in thirty villages. Of these, ten are in a state of disrepair. In a typical Government primary school, there are two teachers and two classrooms for 120-150 children. Children do not have writing tools, there is no safe drinking water facility or latrines. Such a situation is not conducive to receive education and KNUC is working to improve the situation in these schools. Guria Swayam Sansthan	Guria is located in the district Varanasi of Uttar Pradesh. Disturbed by the plight of the women in prostitution and the futures of their children, one man, Ajeet Singh decided to take it upon himself to make a change and started Guria. The aim of Guria is to bring to an end forced prostitution in this community, and the creation of a humane world where all beings co-exist in harmony. Specifically, Guria aims to end second generation prostitution, child prostitution, human trafficking, create awareness among the women of their human and civil rights, and provide support and rehabilitate victims of trafficking, prostitution and other forms of sexual exploitation. Dhamma Dippa School	The Dhamma Dipa School (DDS) was founded in Sabroom district of Tripura by Dr. Ven Dhammapiya, a Buddhist monk. The children here have hitherto had no access to education. The school intends to prepare them for opportunities outside their tribal communities in attempt to help them overcome poverty. Most of the children are tribal children from the Mog tribe. The school supports the instructional, boarding and lodging requirements of the students. The school caters to children from grades kindergarten to 4 and plans to add one additional grade every year until it reaches grade 12. Future plans include addition of library, labs, and revenue-generating activities like weaving and farming to make the school self sustained.	Bahujana Hitaya Education Trust P.O. NICE (Asha India)	NICE provides a balanced academic and vocational education for orphan, poor and severely deprived children in rural Andhra Pradesh. A free residential school, NICE admits primary school dropouts and puts them through a 1-year bridge curriculum before starting high school education in CBSE curriculum. NICE wants to turn these deprived children into rural entrepreneurs by imparting vocational education along with formal education. NICE takes its responsibility to its donors very seriously, and is run extremely transparently, and all its accounts are published on the Internet and Annual Reports are sent to all its donors. Tribal Empowerment Project (Asha India)	The school - a quintessential Asha project, was conceived at the Asha Timbukto conference in 2003. It owes its origins to a few dedicated Asha individuals (Raj, Jags, Sahadev, Mani, Menon, Ajay and Batra) who with the committed champion of tribal education - Mr. T.H.Joy, took up starting a school in the remote tribal village of Leingangching Village in Manipur. This area is hilly with poor agricultural prospects, compounded by tribal rivalries. Joy hails from here and is a success story of a tribal native who made his career in the city. The school with a few voluntary teachers was started in late 2003 with about 30 students. It is close to 13 villages serving tribes of all ethnicities. Asha raised a few funds to start a school building which was functional with constructed classrooms in March 2004. The efforts of incubation by Asha Stamford since 2003, and continued private donations by Asha individuals has resulted in the school growing to a fully functioning, enviable and much admired institution in that area. The school today supports 307 poor students across grades K-6, and 8 teachers including a Principal and Vice Principal. In addition, the children are provided with uniforms and participate in organized sports like football, volleyball, carrom etc.	C/o Vallabh Pandey, Asha Center, Village Bhandahankala, Kaithi, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh, India	3,222.00

Sandhya Sanwardhan Sanstha	Sandhya Sanwardhan Sanstha provides service to children who fall under 5 levels of retardedness - ranging from borderline retarded to profoundly retarded. Profoundly retarded children need 1-on-1 attention for day-to-day tasks (like brushing their teeth, eating, etc.). More than 13 children in SSS are profoundly-retarded. SSS provides a range of services to the children, depending on their level of mental handicap ness. These include: Special Education, Speech Therapy, Physio Therapy, Music Therapy, Parents and Sibling Training, Learning through cultural programs, Sports and yoga, Home-based training, Public Awareness, Vocational Training Rehabilitation, Parent Relief Center. Sandhya Sanwardhan Sanstha (SSS) is a research institute dedicated to the development and rehabilitation of mentally handicapped children. The uniqueness of this institute is that they provide individual attention depending on the specific circumstances of the child. SSS was started in 1993 in Nagpur, Maharashtra and has been dedicated in providing such service to about 82 children today.	18, Sawarkar Nagar Bus Stop, Khamla Road, Nagpur, MAHARASHTRA 440015	9,924.00
Shamayita Convent School	The school started in 1996 with 19 kindergarteners from the local villages. The school is in conformity with the syllabus of the CBSE Board. The school will be upgraded to secondary level by adding a new class each year. Presently those 19 kindergarteners are in eighth grade and will be first graduates of the school in 2007. Currently there are 320 students and 14 teachers (ten of them are sannnyasinis of the Math). There is a hostel for 42 girls. The school is free upto fourth grade including lunch. After that, about 60% of the students pay tuition of 42 rupees per month which partially supports the education of 40% of the needy students. Project RightStart	Many teachers in chennai rural area lack in terms of knowledge of good education methods specifically targeted towards young children. They require training in these areas. Instead of having different training sessions, one for each project, it made sense to combine these into a single training session for all the Balwadi and Primary School teachers. Besides lowering the cost of running these sessions, combining these also brings in interaction between teachers spread across several districts of Tamilnadu. This would help them and us to understand the complexities that exist at the ground in the different areas of the state. Thus was envisioned the RightStart teachers training program. This was successfully conducted in September/October of 2003 and once again in May 2005. In May 2005 about 65 teachers attended the training program. Ravi's main focus is on improving the quality of education in these schools. He has also started a new program called Gramina Vidya Vahini (Mobile Library) in 2003 to inculcate reading habits among children. Last year Ravi started a new program to identify and train village youth who can then be designated to a school to work with children on a daily basis. This was mainly triggered by the fact that Ravi can only visit 2 schools in any given day which limits his capacity to improve the effectiveness of his program. 5 schools are currently part of this program. Ravi also conducts teacher training workshops for various other Asha projects and also is a key contributor to Learning Network Initiative. The school is currently on a rental property which is doubled as a hostel. They do follow the curriculum of state board. It takes about a year and half or more to teach a normal school year curriculum to these kids. Of course, preschool is much elongated. The staff is around 20 people, including teachers, cooks and other workers. The goal of this project is to have a self sustainable school up to 10th grade at least, making sure that the students which it trains are able to stand up for themselves for the rest of their life. With help of $10000 from Asha Seattle in 2006 the school was able to make a substantial progress towards getting about Rs. 40 lakhs to buy their own land. Sankurathri Foundation	The school aims to provide education in the rural communities so that children can help themselves in future. The school follows the State syllabus and books. The teaching methodology is different from the methods followed in conventional schools. The school imparts strict discipline and very high academic standards. The student-to-teacher ratio is less than 1:10 and this actually helps the teachers closely monitor the progress of each child and help them build upon their strengths and overcome weaknesses. The teachers try to identify the innate potential of each child by paying attention to each child and monitoring his/her progress. In addition, the school provides two sets of uniforms, nutritious lunch, medical check ups and medicines, a late afternoon glass of milk and bus transportation for students not living within walking distance. The management conducts parent-teacher meetings every month to discuss the problems both parties have and provide guidance to arrive at effective solutions. Most parents have also realized the value of education their children receive by going to Sarada Vidyalayam and their conventional outlook towards education has changed.	A.P.S.P. Shikshana Vahini, Mysore	The current project is for a consortium of 312 Government schools in Heggadadevanakote taluk, Mysore District, Karnataka. The beneficiaries of the project will be an estimated 43,000 school children & 1200 teachers of the 312 Government run schools located in the interior areas of 216 villages and 110 tribal colonies are there in the taluk. The actual expense incurred on each child for the entire duration of the project(3 years) works to just 81 cents, or in other words to 27 cents PER CHILD PER YEAR. This is mainly possible because of the extensive involvement of the government and the community. If this project succeeds, it could very well be a role model for community based education in India. Tribal Empowerment Project (Asha India)	The school - a quintessential Asha project, was conceived at the Asha Timbukto conference in 2003. It owes its origins to a few dedicated Asha individuals (Raj, Jags, Sahadev, Mani, Menon, Ajay and Batra) who with the committed champion of tribal education - Mr. T.H.Joy, took up starting a school in the remote tribal village of Leingangching Village in Manipur. This area is hilly with poor agricultural prospects, compounded by tribal rivalries. Joy hails from here and is a success story of a tribal native who made his career in the city. The school with a few voluntary teachers was started in late 2003 with about 30 students. It is close to 13 villages serving tribes of all ethnicities. Asha raised a few funds to start a school building which was functional with constructed classrooms in March 2004. The efforts of incubation by Asha Stamford since 2003, and continued private donations by Asha individuals has resulted in the school growing to a fully functioning, enviable and much admired institution in that area. The school today supports 307 poor students across grades K-6, and 8 teachers including a Principal and Vice Principal. In addition, the children are provided with uniforms and participate in organized sports like football, volleyball, carrom etc.	C/o Vallabh Pandey, Asha Center, Village Bhandahankala, Kaithi, Lucknow, Uttar Pradesh, India	3,222.00
