Join the BEAT is a multi-bureau public health collaboration joining efforts in Being active, Eating healthy, Acting on cardiovascular risks, and Taking medications, by bringing together environmental strategies and community-clinical linkages to reduce disparities in preventing diabetes and helping people with hypertension control their blood pressure. Special emphasis is placed on community-clinical linkage to engender changes that are mutually reinforcing and create seamless, coordinated support to improve health and healthful behaviors. Interventions are targeted in four priority neighborhoods that have higher than citywide prevalence for obesity, diabetes, and hypertension. Targeted community, evidence-based programs, like the Diabetes Prevention Program (DPP) have been implemented, coupled with whole population programs, like enhanced access to healthy environmental settings. The project activities are focused on the following key areas: population-level interventions, many of which are aligned around current DOHMH/ City programs, coalition building to support DPP scale-up for the prevention of diabetes, practice facilitation focused around using Health IT to drive improvements in disease management and early diagnosis, and promotion of community-clinical linkage strategies for disease prevention.

Pursuant to a negotiated acquisition agreement, FPHNY provides services to DOHMH on a requirements basis to develop and implement community based public health projects. Two examples of projects include Harlem Health Advocacy Project - to reduce disparities in chronic disease among public housing residents and to improve their long-term health and quality-of-life by training residents to serve as community health workers and health advocates, and the Stellar Farmers Markets program which provides free, bilingual nutrition education and cooking demonstrations at select farmers markets throughout NYC

To achieve maximum impact while also reducing health disparities, Partnerships to Improve Community Health (PICH) Program will reach all 8.4 million City residents, with program implementation focused on three priority areas (1.5 million residents). The Community Action Plan (CAP) contains evidence-based activities to address identified local health needs. CAP implementation will lead to improved long-term health outcomes by providing New Yorkers with increased access to tobacco-free environments in multi-unit housing, hospitals, and the community, healthy food and beverage options through community organizational policy change, promotion of fruits and vegetables, breastfeeding systems change in hospitals, and physical activity opportunities in schools, childcare settings, and surrounding communities. During Year 1, Health Department staff have worked with partners across New York City (NYC) to directly support the implementation of smoke-free policies at dozens of properties. The Smoke Free Housing Manager estimates that close to 800 units will go smoke-free in upcoming months, as a result of these efforts. The properties that currently demonstrate the greatest promise for adopting a smoke-free housing policy are located in Manhattan. In March 2015, the Active Design Toolkit for Schools publication was released digitally and print copies were disseminated across New York City for use by schools and their communities. Health Department staff coordinated with partners and key stakeholders (i.e., school officials, community members) to brainstorm and select systems-level, citywide school practices that, once implemented, will increase opportunities for physical activity in K-12 schools.

Return Reference	Explanation
Part X, Line 2	The Organization adopted Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) Accounting Standards Update No 2009-06, Income Taxes (Topic 740), the accounting standard on accounting for uncertainty in income taxes, which addresses the determination of whether or not tax benefits claimed or expected to be claimed on a tax return should be recorded in the financial statements. Under this guidance, the Organization may recognize the tax benefit from an uncertain tax position only if it is more-likely-than-not that the tax position will be sustained on examination by taxing authorities, based on technical merits of the position. The tax benefits recognized in the financial statements from such a position are measured based on the largest benefit that has a greater than 50% likelihood of being realized upon ultimate settlement. The guidance on accounting for uncertainty in income taxes also addresses de-recognition, classification, interest and penalties on income taxes, and accounting in interim periods. Management evaluated the Organization's tax positions and concluded that the Organization had taken no uncertain tax positions that require adjustments to the financial statements to comply with the provisions of this guidance. The Organization is no longer subject to income tax examinations by U.S. Federal, state or local tax authorities for years before 2012, which is the standard statute of limitations look-back period.
