Name: YES Nature to Neighborhoods

Form 990 (2016)

Form 990, Part III, Line 4a:

Camp-to-Community YES increased the number of actively engaged teens in the Camp-to-Community (C2C) program from 36 to 37 teens, and expanded program offerings. For the second time, a selection of actively engaged teens participated in a multi-week wilderness or social justice intensive summer program. C2C also provided all teens with an average of 26 days of nature immersion programming, up from 19 days the year prior. Experiences included both day-long and multi-day experiences, which included leadership development training and service learning. Four participants were hired into fulltime positions at residential summer camps and two received scholarships to college for completing the Fellowship Track. An additional eight teens participated in a year-long youth participatory action research cohort that involved training middle school students on healthy nutrition and physical activity practices.

Form 990, Part III, Line 4b:

Summer Camp YES provided scholarships for 306 Richmond and West Contra Costa County low-income youth ages 8-17 to attend weeklong residential summer camps, and supported 26 youth, ages 14-17, to obtain leadership positions at summer camp For the program period YES provided outreach, application support, translation services, financial support, transportation support, and orientation for both children and families and camp staff The program also provided 143 youth with additional outdoor experiences via day outings known as "Camp Days" in local open spaces near to their homes during the academic year The agency also launched the Richmond Rangers program component that brought 14 YES youth into regional parks for 25 program days with a focus on environmental education and recreation with trained naturalists and rec leaders from the East Bay Regional Park District Through facilitated experiences in nature, the Summer Camp program supports low-income, underserved youth to gain exposure to the outdoors where they build self-confidence, develop social and leadership skills, and form new friendships with peers and positive adult role models

Form 990, Part III, Line 4c:

Family Camp YES provided weekend-long Family Camps for 304 low-income, underserved Richmond residents through four Family Camps. Three camps were provided for families associated with two specific schools in Richmond, and one was designed to focus especially on leadership development for teen and adult participants and their families. YES engaged an average of 25 volunteers during each weekend to support programming. Youth participants engaged in an average of 520 minutes of physical activity, and adults in an average of 360 minutes of physical activity each weekend.
