Other programs- The Ohana Project (Ohana Project + Research) - we brought together a team of doctors, therapists, dietitians, and researchers to design a program that brings together all of MaxLove's individual programs into an integrated intervention that will dramatically increase quality of life and reduce long-term health risks of children affected by cancer. The result is the Ohana Project, a 12-week program that uses peer social support alongside integrative medicine and professional health coaching to directly improve children's immediate quality of life, while helping parents make small but significant and sustainable lifestyle changes that improve the health, well-being, and long-term risk profile for the entire family. Our first cohort for this study of ten families who have a child with a brain tumor is now complete. Family Advocacy - MaxLove Project advocates for quality of life care with hospital and institutional partners and provides support to families in need of patient navigation support. Ethan & Choco's Book Club- Over 15,000 books collected for a new library at CHOC Children's Hospital funded by this program.
