Return Reference	Explanation
SCHEDULE F, PART I, QUESTION 2	Site visits are made with each partner every 2-3 years by the Chief Program Officer ("CPO") to review the progress for each student funded by the scholarships. At the end of each partner visit, CPO prepares a program evaluation where she assesses several factors about the program that was observed. These factors include educational quality of the school, basic needs for students, support for primary/secondary transition, mentorship programs, and name recognition of Shes the First as well as interviews with staff, additional programs observed at the school, and any struggles observed. In order to monitor each girls progress and provide donors with personal updates on the girls they are funding, STF requires partners to provide quarterly updates on all girls that STF supports, including a general update, individual student updates, photos and bios of each student, and letters written directly from the students themselves. In addition to reporting above, the CPO reviews form 990s and annual report, or the local equivalent, for each partner school to gain an understanding of the organizations STF is supporting. In 2017, STF launched a new program to provide grants to partner schools for projects and initiatives that are not directly covered under standard scholarships paid. Partners are required to submit an application for funds which includes the intended use of the funds and, once granted, must submit a report summarizing how funds were used.

CORE FORM, PART III, STATEMENT OF PROGRAM SERVICE ACCOMPLISHMENTS	Shes the First exists to fight gender inequality through education. In our programs, every student, regardless of where she is from, receives the schooling, mentorship, and global leadership training she needs to control her life outcomes and challenge unjust systems. We provide scholarships to girls in low-income countries and capacity-building grants to the community-led organizations serving them, while also implementing our own global leadership curriculum and training across 200+ high school and college campus chapters within the U.S. and 10 other countries. We are dedicated to our mission because we recognize that 63 million girls are out of secondary school worldwide and 2/3 of the world's 781 million illiterate adults are women. The cycle of poverty breaks in families when a girl is educated. At the end of 2017, Shes the First had 918 Shes the First Scholars on our roster. Combined with our campus chapter membership, that means that we trained 4,845 students in 21 countries to be global leaders this year. To meet some of the students we've impacted and learn more about our programs, please visit shesthefirst.org.
