Pt X, Line 2	Dogwood is generally exempt from federal income taxes under 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code. Under the Code, however, income from certain activities not related to the organization's tax-exempt purpose may be subject to taxation as unrelated business income. The organization had less than $1,000 of income from unrelated business activities in the year ended December 31, 2019 and was, therefore, not required to file Federal Form 990-T (Exempt Organization Business Income Tax Return). The organization believes that it has appropriate support for all tax positions taken, and as such, does not have any uncertain tax positions that are material to the financial statements.

Other	Our Forests Aren't Fuel (OFAF) -Policy makers in Europe and the United States are promoting the burning of wood as a "renewable" climate friendly alternative coal for electricity generation under the guise of "renewable energy" even though the science documents that burning wood releases more carbon than coal per unit of electricity generated and further degrades forests. Over the past several years, the forests of the Southern US have been the target of this growing global market. In response, in 2013 Dogwood Alliance, launched the Our Forests Aren't Fuel campaign educating and activating citizens, policy makers and industry on both sides of the Atlantic to stop the further expansion of this industry. This campaign continued to be a major focus of work in 2019 leveraging significant results. State, national and international concern about industrial biomass grew significantly in 2019, as communities and government officials publicly challenged the industry's "renewable" and "sustainable" claims. In a major campaign victory, North Carolina's final Clean Energy Plan, released in October, rejected the burning of forests as clean, renewable energy and challenged the industry's claim of carbon neutrality. Thousands of citizens and dozens of organizations took action in 2019 during Dogwood's campaign, which targeted climate-conscious Governor Roy Cooper to stop Enviva. Multiple public hearings, rallies and press conferences combined with targeted communications, advertising and online actions created the leverage needed to influence the Governor to take a stand. Dogwood's organizing work to elevate the needs and concerns of the frontline communities facing three pellet facility expansions in North Carolina has worked to create a united defense against the industry--one that local and state legislators and leaders, including the Governor, cannot ignore. Finally, Dogwood Alliance campaigning significantly impacted the overseas market for biomass. Our investigation with TV2 Denmark turned into a national debate on biomass, causing the Danish Climate and Energy Minister to publicly question the country's reliance on wood pellets. In Ireland, as a biomass facility there was shut down after public opposition organized by Dogwood Alliance. The plant would have sourced its pellets from North Carolina. Two Netherlands-based companies who source from Enviva announced they will not open two planned facilities, one due to public protest. Finally, high-ranking EU officials made statements at the Council of Parliament (COP) calling into question the future sustainability of logging forests for fuel and current EU policies. Together, these actions are indicators that biomass may be losing its popular spin as a green, renewable energy in Europe.
Other	Program Service Accomplishments - Part III Line 4b
Other	Wetland Forest Initiative (WFI) - Wetland forests in the US South span nearly 35 million acres across 14 states and are critical for community health and safety. They have some of the highest rates of biodiversity and carbon sequestration of any forest type in the US. In 2016, Dogwood Alliance, Inc. launched the Wetland Forests Initiative (WFI) to engage partners, citizens, political leaders, landowners and many others in a legacy landscape conservation initiative to protect millions of acres throughout the Southeast. Dogwood's leadership in protecting critical wetland forests in the South from industrial logging, including biomass, gained momentum in 2019. Our leadership was critical in securing the endorsement of over 50 organizations on a strategic plan to protect wetland forests across the South. This plan focuses on measuring success on the ground, building a movement in priority watersheds and identifying key strategies that can be implemented at all levels. In addition to the strategic plan, our leadership aligned organizations across the region in identifying key priority watersheds for initial conservation efforts. Maps released highlight 14 watersheds across the South, including: The Lower Pee Dee Watershed in South Carolina and North Carolina, The Apalachicola Watershed in Florida and Georgia, and The Atchafalaya Watershed in Louisiana. Now, Dogwood is on the ground in affected communities building a model of inclusive, rural organizing with voices typically not included in the decision-making process regarding land use. In 2019, we began to explore opportunities for community-led economic solutions with partners in the Pee Dee watershed that will both protect standing wetland forests and provide economic sustainability for a community outside of traditional industrial logging.
Other	Program Service Accomplishments - Part III Line 4c
Other	Forests and Climate (F&amp;C) - The Paris Climate Agreement gave the world a charge: decarbonize all energy sectors and simultaneously remove carbon dioxide from the air. The best and most cost-effective technology we have to remove carbon from our atmosphere right now lies in the power of forests. Standing forests are the natural life support that we need to mitigate the worst impacts of climate change and protect those most profoundly impacted, often low income communities and people of color. Logging in the US releases large amounts of carbon into the atmosphere while simultaneously degrading the nation's forests ability to provide critical climate benefits. Despite these facts, forest protection continues to remain on the sidelines of the national climate agenda and renewable energy policy in the US. Dogwood Alliance's new forest and climate program is designed to shift this dynamic, by elevating the current climate justice threats posed by biomass and building support for forest protection as a national climate justice priority. In 2019 Dogwood Alliance rose to become the go-to leader working at the intersection of forests, climate and justice. Our focus on deepening partnerships created opportunities to influence policy and policy makers at the state and national level--both to protect standing forests and oppose industrial biomass as a renewable energy pathway. The drafters of the Green New Deal reached out to Dogwood Alliance for input on forest protection language in the resolution introduced in the House and Senate. Early in 2019, Georgia Senator Lester Jackson introduced #Stand4Forests Resolution SR108, calling on forest protection and against industrial biomass in the state. After gaining traction and a half-dozen co-sponsors, Rep. Carl Gilliard (D) agreed to introduce a companion resolution in the Georgia House. At the end of the year, the resolution has bipartisan support and the backing of the entire Economic and Development Committee. Both resolutions will go to committee in Q1 2020. Furthermore, Dogwood Alliance partnered with the Center for Sustainable Economy to release "Climate Impacts of Industrial Forest Practices in North Carolina." The report was sent to over 100 elected official targets in the US and overseas and generated significant industry response. Garnering significant media attention, the report was featured in an article in The NewScientist. The report itself reveals that logging in North Carolina is the third highest carbon emitting sector, just behind electricity and transportation for the state. Other notable leadership opportunities and actions included speaking at several youth-led Climate rallies, helping organize Al Gore's Climate Reality Project in Georgia
