Adventist Health White Memorial Charitable Foundation supports Adventist Health White Memorial (AHWM), a 353-bed, not-for-profit, faith-based, teaching hospital, which provides a full range of inpatient, outpatient, emergency and diagnostic services to the communities in and near downtown Los Angeles. One of the greatest assets an organization can possess is the trust of its community, both on campus and in the surrounding neighborhoods. The care we give at AHWM follows our mission of living God's love by inspiring health, wholeness and hope. We touch the lives of people at every point throughout their lifetime beginning with exceptional prenatal and maternity care. Our Level III Neonatal Intensive Care Unit is one of the few in Los Angeles for newborns in need of advanced specialized care. The AHWM Cleft Palate Program focuses on providing the surgeries and support for children with this birth defect, including restoring normal function with minimal scarring, dentistry, and speech therapy to help correct speaking difficulties. Mental and emotional health services are provided for all ages. In partnership with MAOF (Mexican American Opportunity Foundation) and other not-for-profit partners, Viva Bien at our Community Information Center provides local seniors a place to connect as well as activities to improve health and fitness, and free expertise for MediCare and ACA health care sign-ups. Our partnership with TELACU Education Foundation to assist youth from our community to become nurses was cited previously as being instrumental in the hospital being recognized nationally with the Malcolm Baldrige Award. Our hospitals impact on our community during 2020 was a major key in helping our residents through the pandemic and our Foundation received a significant amount of donated Personal Protective Equipment from our community and other supporters. Los Angeles Latinx community was disproportionately hard hit since the beginning of the pandemic, and 90% of AHWM patients are Hispanic. Boyle Heights was a county designated COVID-19 hotspot beginning in April 2020. Our Latinx community was highly susceptible to COVID-19 spread because of housing density, underlying health conditions, and the fact that many are essential workers unable to work from home. Due to the high volume of patients during the winter COVID-19 surge, the hospital had to make patient room modifications, secure critical supplies and additional equipment, and deal with the stress on healthcare staff. "Our hospital continues to take care of our community. Our community has been our priority for over 100 years," says Former Chief of the AHWM Medical Staff, Dr. Miguel Martinez. As the winter COVID-19 surge began to peak in early January, White Memorial had to quickly make huge adjustments to accommodate our growing numbers of COVID-19 patients. "I am very proud of our hospital," says John Raffoul, President, Adventist Health White Memorial. "We were in a crisis. Our hospital teams came together with creative ideas to convert areas of our hospital to safely care for the huge influx of COVID-19 patients." "We converted 187 of our hospital rooms into negative pressure rooms. Negative pressure rooms, also called isolation rooms, are a type of hospital room that keeps patients with infectious illnesses away from other patients, visitors, and healthcare staff. They are called negative pressure rooms because the air pressure inside the room is lower than the air pressure outside the room. This means that when the door is opened, potentially contaminated air or other dangerous particles from inside the room will not flow outside into non-contaminated areas. Contaminated air is sucked out of the room with exhaust systems, which are built with filters that clean the air before it is pumped outside and away from the healthcare facility. The hospital also had to secure additional intravenous infusion pumps, high flow oxygen systems, telemetry systems and oxygen cylinders. Los Angeles hospital oxygen delivery systems were not designed for a pandemic. According to Mara Bryant, AHWM Operations Executive, "We have a capacity of 10,000 gallons of oxygen and on a normal day use about 500 gallons. At one point during the crisis, we were using 3,200 gallons of oxygen daily - 800% over our normal daily usage." The hospital augmented the oxygen system with external tanks and installed higher powered evaporators to stabilize the system to supply the much-needed oxygen for COVID-19 patients. We are grateful to the TELACU Education Foundation nursing students who came to White Memorial to assist with distribution of the vaccine to our healthcare workers and our community. Additionally, the U.S. Department of Defense sent U.S. Army and Air Force medical personnel and the State of California sent National Guard nurses and physicians. The troops arrived fresh and eager to assist our staff with heavy patient loads. The Army Corp of Engineers built a field hospital in our Emergency Department parking lot to accommodate COVID-19 patients during a surge. We are grateful for the dedication and hard work of all our physicians, nurses, hospital staff, the U.S. Army and Air Force teams, the National Guard Strike teams, the Army Corp of Engineers, the TELACU Education Foundation nurses and all those who have stepped up to help White Memorial and to assist the lives of so many patients in our community. Adventist Health White Memorial continues to partner with other community organizations to vaccinate our community. Thank you to ALL our hospital heroes - physicians, nurses, staff, community leaders, military leaders and teams, elected officials, and our donors for your continued support during the COVID-19 pandemic. AHWM invites you to partner with us in building on our legacy of primary care and our unwavering pursuit of excellence in quality, innovation and service.
