Part III Statement of Program Service Accomplishments (see the instructions for Part III)

Check if the organization used Schedule O to respond to any question in this Part III

What is the organization's primary exempt purpose?
 The Primary Aldosteronism Foundation is committed to advancing standards of care for affected patients through proper diagnosis and treatment, actionable research and inclusive collaboration. To achieve its mission, the Foundation focuses on areas at the intersection of research, diagnosis, treatment and patient-oriented solutions.

Describe the organization's program service accomplishments for each of its three largest program services, as measured by expenses. In a clear and concise manner, describe the services provided, the number of persons benefited, and other relevant information for each program title.

28 Primary Aldosteronism Roundtable and Summit. The Foundation has identified 11 factors across the healthcare sector that are responsible for the lack of diagnosis and treatment for PA. We've held consultations with the leadership of some 45 organization responsible for the factors, including: ASN, ACC, Endocrine Society, AAFP, ACP, AAES, SIRWEB, AHA, CDC, FDA, NIH, academic institutions, healthcare systems and payers, laboratories, pharmaceutical industries. Anticipated result: In June 2022, the Foundation will convene these stakeholders in a "Call to Action to Diagnose and Treat Primary Aldosteronism." Our goal is to establish a formal alliance coordinated by the Foundation to address these issues. Future outcomes: under the coordination of the Foundation, this groundwork will enable the design and implementation of programs for each of the 11 factors in order to remediate them.

29 Research and Innovation. Although discovered 60 years ago, the understanding of primary aldosteronism and its pathogenesis remains fragmented, and 95% of patients are neither diagnosed nor treated despite high disease prevalence (up to 13.5% of the population). 1) The Foundation has conducted an analysis of the disease's signs and symptoms, and of the critical factors contributing to lack of diagnosis and treatment. Outcome: identification of 11 factors across the healthcare sector; identification of over 50 signs and symptoms. 2) The Foundation has explored the ways in which implementation research can support the design and implementation of interventions needed to diagnose and treat primary aldosteronism in discussion with Johns Hopkins and University of WA at St Louis. 3) The Foundation is participating in the development of a predictive modeling tool leveraging artificial intelligence to identify affected patients and those at high risk for the disease in collaboration with Atomo and the University of Pennsylvania. 5) The Foundation is working with clinical researchers to advance the research agenda (University of Michigan, Harvard University, Mayo Clinic, NIH, Endocrine Society). Long-term goal: revision of current clinical guidelines; increase in research grants dedicated to primary aldosteronism. 6) The Foundation is working with industry leaders to translate advances into diagnostic and therapeutic solutions: Number of clinical trials supported: 5 (CinCor, Mineralys, PhaseBio, KBP Biosciences, FDA). Long-term goal: market availability of new FDA-approved drugs to treat primary aldosteronism. 7) The Foundation has co-authored an academic publication on primary aldosteronism. 8) The Foundation has compiled and is maintaining an online database of 454 academic articles published on primary aldosteronism. 9) The Foundation is participating as Associate Investigator on various multi-year grant applications.
 (Grants $ 0) If this amount includes foreign grants, check here

30 Education on Primary Aldosteronism for Patients, Providers, and Stakeholders. The near absence of diagnosis and treatment of primary aldosteronism is in part due to a lack of education and the misconception that the disease is rare. The Foundation is addressing this area by: 1) Developing and maintaining an educational website on the disease with up-to-date information on diagnosis, treatment, research, and patient support with some 92 educational pages and 410 reference articles. 2) Supporting the development and maintenance of online directories of specialists and medical centers. 3) Building partnerships with relevant institutions and organizations (FH Foundation, T1D Exchange, National Kidney Foundation, AHA, CDC, NADF, WHL, Adrenal Alternatives). 4) Moderating two online support groups dedicated to primary aldosteronism. 5) Publishing educational fact sheets for patients and providers. 6) Using Twitter and other social media to promote awareness of the disease. 7) Collecting and editing stories from patients and publishing them to our website to inform others about the challenges of diagnosis and treatment. 8) Working with a group in Australia on the development of our first international charter as part of our worldwide mission. 9) Collecting and tracking signatures to our Open Letter in support of our efforts through our website. Other funding: In addition to cash donations, the Foundation received another $1,870 in in-kind service grants to host and maintain our website.
