CFJ San Jose youth organized and secured a commitment from East Side Union High School District to a 3 week restorative restart for the fall allowing 3 weeks of students and staff making space to build relationships, center racial justice, equity and the needs of students and families as they return to campus. CFJ Long Beach won their campaign for LBUSD to prioritize student health and resources for Black students in their budget this spring. The district is committing $1.6 million to establish wellness centers at every high school campus going forward. CFJ Oakland won a district commitment of $9 million to a mental health resolution prioritizing support for students as they return to campus. CFJ Fresno organized the Fresno Unified School District to expand the scope of ethnic studies in the district by using a racial justice lense across their courses and curriculum. Using a double equity approach, Fresno Unified will also pay student leaders to gather and record this feedback from their peers and community.
